

Provider Tip of the Week

August 17, 2022

Baby Conversation

Back and forth conversations, like a game of catch, are how babies learn language best. Remind parents to respond to any sounds or bids for attention that their baby makes, either by repeating the same sound, or pretending that they understood what they were saying. Filling a baby's day with words is one of the best ways to promote development.

Watch this video for more information